Faculty Listening Sessions

Over the course of the last month, members of the WSU Board of Regents have traveled to four WSU campuses, engaged in five listening sessions, and heard from nearly 300 faculty members from across the system.

The Regents appreciated the candor, compassion, and thoughtful nature of the faculty who attended the listening sessions and provided their feedback.

While there are no additional listening sessions scheduled at this time, the Regents are in the process of consolidating their notes and developing an executive summary of what they heard. This summary, when available, will be shared on the Faculty Senate website.

Course Review Site

The Course Review Site serves as a space for faculty to review new and revised courses that have been submitted to the Office of the Registrar for approval through the senate. To review courses and submit a concern, click on the bulletins below. You may submit your concern regarding any new or revised course during the two weeks that the bulletin is active based on the timelines listed below.

If you anticipate that your course may affect another unit, we encourage you to reach out and engage in collegial conversation with that unit before you submit your proposal. Read more about the Course Review Process here.
