In-County Resident Status for Students Displaced by Natural Disasters

In compliance with the Code of Maryland Regulations (COMAR), the Board of Trustees may designate students displaced as a result of natural disasters as in-county residents for the purpose of tuition. This in-county designation would apply only for specific evacuation situations resulting from a United States Presidential Major Disaster Declaration (the process of which is regulated by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency [FEMA]). Such designations must be recommended by the College president and approved by the Board on a case-by-case basis. All actions would be limited to the academic years specified. All normal course fees would apply. Requests for financial assistance would be examined on an individual student basis and Opportunity Scholarships may be awarded if deemed appropriate by the administration based upon individual student financial need.
